

IDCM 2012 August 30-31

Dear Industry Professional,

The 6th annual IDCM (International Design and Construction Management) Forum has been finalized to convene in August 30-31, 2012 in Bangkok, Thailand. The mission of IDCM (International Design and Construction Management) is to provide an accessible forum for professionals of the built environment from East and West to interact and exchange ideas for collaboration and growth. Based on the feedback from previous forums, we are featuring country programs from Cambodia, Vietnam, Thailand, Laos, and Myanmar as one of the main objectives of this forum. US, European, and Asian Construction companies are interested in doing business in this growing geography.

As per the program outlined below, the Forum will feature 5 Asian countries, each represented by a person at a high level of its Ministry and the construction industry presenting the country's capital program and its process for engaging foreign participants. Sponsoring companies will have two exclusive "one on one" meetings with the client/country of their choice. In addition, there will be a general session where the country representatives will interact with the audience via a panel, as well as an opportunity for the sponsoring companies to present their capabilities. As in the past, the meeting of the various international CM Organizations, is also being scheduled apart from the general attendees to discuss collaboration and CM Promotion in Asia. We look forward to your participation in this exciting forum.
